Ardmore, Sunday, January 14, 1906.

The silliness of Laollette has the older members of the senate guessing. He is not making the fool of himself that some people thought he would.

Mr. Carnegie who predicts universal peace doubtless has not taken cognizance of the turn affairs have taken in the national house of representatives.

It is noted that Secretary Root maintains an apprehensive silence whenever the transfer of the Panama canal affairs to his department is mentioned.

John D. Rockefeller has organized the Continental Rubber company with a capital stock of $30,000,000. That ought to produce some elastic currency.

The movement to make a separate state of New York city is again revived. But is New York City sufficiently civilized to become a state? Why not make it a territory?

The statement that Mr. Carnegie is awakened every morning by the notes of an organ is interesting information to those who supposed he was awakened by the notes of a national bank.

Three feet of snow is reported over the major portion of the territory of New Mexico, and great loss of live stock is expected. It is said there is also much suffering among the people.

The revolution in the Isle of Pines seems to have created as little excitement in Cuba as in the United States. The Havana government didn't even take the trouble to spank the noise makers.

The court of inquiry at Annapolis seems to be at a loss just how to proceed in the cases of the students who admittedly engaged in hazing. How would it do to send a lot of these young bullies home to stay sent?

The mayor of Evansville, Ind., has put the lid on light in that town and everything unnecessary is tabooed on Sunday. But the mayor of Evansville declares that beer and amusements are necessities. Such a diplomat as that should have charge of the Panama canal construction.

King Edward will go to Athens in the spring to attend the Olympic games. But then, a man of the corpulence from early indulgences that Edward possesses can hardly hope to attain the fame for strenuousness possessed by our own President Roosevelt.

A new hitch has been taken in the game law at Chickasha, where an enterprising fellow has a covey of 610 live quails that he proposes to ship out of the territory. The game warden grabbed them and the owner contends that they were being shipped for propagation purposes and that, therefore, they are exempt from confiscation.

Mrs. Tolla of New Jersey shot and killed a ruffian to preserve her honor. A Jersey jury found her guilty of murder of the first degree, and assessed her punishment at death on the gallows high. God Almighty must have been manufacturing shrimps instead of men when those jurors were turned out. Governor Stokes has granted a reprieve of thirty days and the victim of shrimp malignity or stupidity may yet be saved. Well, Texas is no so bad. When a good woman ride the world of a brute in this latitude the best people compliment her nerve and marksmanship. Mrs. Tolla should be given an unconditional pardon.—Times Herald.

THE MOROCCAN SITUATION.

The empire of Morocco, an absolute despotism, has been in a state of turmoil for many years past, owing to the natural course of events in a country unrestricted by any laws, civil or religious, and also on account of the steady warfare which the sultan, Mulal Abdel Aziz, has had to wage against the pretenders to the throne. This caused a feeling of uneasiness among the Arab tribes in Algeria, the adjoining French territory, and led to efforts on the part of France to assume a guardianship over Morocco. Germany was not willing to unreservedly agree to this, being second only to Great Britain in the extent of her interests in Morocco. In 1892 the imports of the three powers into Morocco were: Great Britain $6,216,909, Germany $1,856,000 and France $389,000. The exports of Morocco to the three powers in 1892 were, to Great Britain $2,999,000, to Germany $332,000 and to France $755,000.

France, pursuing her Moroccan policy, sent a special mission to Fez last year. The German emperor went still further. He visited Tangier March 31, 1905, on the imperial yacht Hohenzollern, but remained ashore barely two hours. During that time he made a speech, of which several versions were published. The substance of his majesty's remarks, however, was that he assured the German residents that the sovereignty and integrity of Morocco would be maintained. The same day the then French minister of foreign affairs, M. Delcasse, made a magnificent speech in the senate at Paris, during which, after referring to the sultan's weakness and the anarchy resulting therefrom, "prejudicial to everybody and especially to France and Algeria," he declared that "resistance in interested quarters would not cause France to modify her policy" in Morocco. This sentiment called forth vigorous applause.

These utterances aroused both Germany and France and caused excitement throughout Europe, resulting later in a strained state of affairs and in the proposition to hold an international conference on Morocco.

France and Great Britain, April 8, 1904, signed an agreement by which the latter in substance gave France a free hand in Morocco in return for a free hand in Egypt and the settlement of the Newfoundland fisheries disputes. Great Britain also agreed to support France in her Moroccan policy.

But, in the meanwhile, M. Delcasse was compelled to resign June 6, 1905, after directing the foreign affairs of France since June 28, 1898, and Premier Rouvier took the foreign portfolio. Subsequent developments showed that the change in the foreign office probably averted war between Germany and France, as the former country was pressing the latter very severely, diplomatically.

After considerable further fencing between Germany and France these two powers on July 8, 1905, agreed on the basis of a program for the proposed international conference, and without entering into details of the reforms proposed, it may be said that the main and most dangerous point to be discussed at the conference is the question whether France is or is not entitled to have a special and privileged position in Morocco. This is the vital issue and the minor questions, it has been pointed out, can be adjusted, once this point is definitely settled. Germany, it is understood, will seek to secure international control of the police, the customs and other matters, and an "open door" as to commerce.

On December 14 the French government issued a Yellow Book setting forth its side of the controversy, and January 8 the German government published a White Book, giving its version of the dispute.

Senator McClaurin of Mississippi calls Governor Vardaman "a vile slanderer and despicable creature." The governor must be impressed that some of the whites as well as the negroes are "growing worse every day."

The time was in the history of advertising and not very long ago, either, when the talent of the shrewdest publicity experts was devoted to the origination of schemes to work business announcements into the columns of the newspapers free of expense to those who hoped to benefit thereby. The practice is not altogether dead, but is dying. Not only are the newspaper owners growing more perspicacious, but advertisers themselves are learning that there is a hundred times as much force in an honest, out-and-out "ad" as there is in a business notice thinly disguised as news. Nowadays the brainy advertisement writers concentrate their energies upon the production of "fetching" copy rather than upon projects to obtain something for nothing space that is worth next to nothing when so procured.—Philadelphia Record.

DENOUNCED WALL STREET

SENATOR SCORES STREET IN A SENSATIONAL SPEECH.

Says It Is Only a Gambling Club With Headquarters on the Hudson River, Assuming to Dictate General Policy of the Country.

Washington, Jan. 13.—Before going into executive session yesterday senate listened to a speech by Mr. Heyburn in support of his bill creating a national board for the control of corporations, in which he denounced Wall street, because of its alleged interference with the affairs of the country. He said that when "the street" could not dictate the financial course of the government it was ever ready to threaten disaster and he pleaded for legislation that would rob it of such power forever. The remainder of the open session was devoted to a discussion by the senate of sending amendments to the calendar after they have been under discussion.

Among the provisions of Mr. Heyburn's bill is one denying the use of the mails to the insurance companies which are not insured by the proposed bureau. He said that this restriction would have the effect of confining insurance companies to the insurance business and said this would prevent the use of the money of the insurance companies for the purpose of speculation in Wall street.

In this connection he entered upon a denunciation of Wall street and its methods.

"It is known as Wall street," said he, "but in reality it is only a gambling club with headquarters on the Hudson river, from which it assumes to dictate the general policy of the country, threatening that unless this thing or that is done it will wreck the country."

"Fortunately," he added, "the time has passed when it can do that, although it once possessed that power. There is an unnatural and unholy congestion of the money of the country in Wall street," he asserted, "and hundreds of millions have been accumulated there by a combination of gamblers, who use their power to bring about a stress in the money market."

He would have this tendency checked so far as it could be done, and he believed that his bill would aid in accomplishing this result.

NEGRO CITIZENS ORGANIZE.

Form Body to Unify Race and Work in Politics.

Guthrie, Ok. Jan. 13.—At a meeting last night of Guthrie and Logan county negroes, with Capt. J. D. Jackson presiding and John F. Anderson secretary, an organization was formed for the purpose of unifying the colored race, to labor for equal justice and fair consideration before the law, principally politically. A committee was named to correspond with negro citizens in various parts of the Territory to meet at a future date, when a permanent organization will be formed. The committee is composed of John W. apers, the only negro office holder in Guthrie, N. J. C. Johnson, John F. Anderson, B. F. Garrett, C. S. Willis and F. Brooks.

Silence isn't always golden. The talker with something to say is worth a dozen keep stills.

Everything Still Dark.

Politicians displayed keen interest yesterday and throughout the day discussed the political situation with great concern. The absence of any information yesterday only serves to increase the tension. The silence was ominous. It indicated that the president was deeply considering the selection of a district attorney. If he has reached a conclusion in the matter politicians have little knowledge of it. The knowing ones predict that the appointment will be made on Monday. It may prove a wise prediction. Heretofore they have displayed temerity in suggesting what would be done. They seemingly did not wish to sacrifice their political judgment. It has been a campaign fraught with uncertainty. The Southern district has never witnessed such a struggle for office and perhaps never will again.

An office-seeker doubts the wisdom of running for office. Before entering he consults his past record. The fight in territory politics has reached the stage where the bounds of propriety are over-reached. There have been more dirty politics this year than was ever known. An outsider wonders if good men are hard to find. Such is the impression he gets on the surface. As a matter of fact the office-holders are men of fine integrity and without a blemish, else they would not have been appointed. It has merely been a fight to prevent men unfit for positions to obtain them. Every state has to contend with factional fights and as Indian Territory is rich in Federal berths it is no exception to the general rule.

Clinging to the belief that an appointment will be made Monday the office-seekers are anxiously awaiting for the music of the half-wagon.

Morris has reached Washington and is armed with endorsements. He is not without political support and it is agreed upon by many that he entered the fight a week ago his appointment would have been a certainty. It is known that the attorney general was vainly struggling with the situation at that time. But Morris, with unfailing party loyalty, remained out of the race and only consented when organization Republicans urged him on. Naturally his candidacy attracts attention and he has the best wishes of many. It is stated that his selection would untie the factions, but those intimate with the bitterness which follows fights of this nature, doubt the wisdom of the statement.

Though press dispatches indicate that Johnson wants the place he has denied it so often that any contrary statement attracts little attention. Intimate friends of his state that he is anxious to retire and escape the burdens of office. His selection would be pleasing to the rank and file of the Southern district.

Advises indicate that Rennie, once agreed upon for the office, will probably fail of appointment. A late dispatch to the effect that Allen is slated as the candidate to end the struggle. Gresham, assistant district attorney in the Central district advised one of his political friends in Ardmore yesterday that he was a candidate, but his candidacy is not looked upon seriously by the organization. The campaign has not been unlike a moving picture. The procession of office-seekers moves in silence. Many would like to know who will be the next picture on the political canvas.

COLORED MASS MEETING.

Enter a Just Protest Against Location of Public School.

A mass meeting of the colored people of all denominations was held Friday night to protest against the establishment of a public school in the basement of the First Baptist church, colored, in East Ardmore. The meeting was well attended and showed plainly that this was a matter in which all were deeply interested. Many facts were brought out in the meeting why the location of a school at this point should be protested against. One of the mildest was that the basement was naturally dark and electricity or other lights would be required all during school session. Another, and a most serious objection, was made in the fact that ten feet distance exists some of the vilest dens in the city, and expression was given that surely the school board was not aware of existing conditions.

A committee of five was appointed at the meeting to file a protest with the school board, setting forth conditions as they exist and as above specified. This protest was handed to the secretary of the board yesterday and he informed the committee that the matter would have the careful consideration of the board at an early date.

The Ardmoreite is free to express that this protest of the colored people is just and sensible, and we feel that when the matter is laid before the school board they will grant the necessary relief at once.

Ardmore Canning Factory.

What are we going to do with it? Last season we had built one of the best equipped canning factories in the southwest but owing to delays we were unable to get in shape to handle last season's crop and the time is near at hand when preparations must be made for the growing of the various crops for its support. It is up to the business people of this locality to decide what we will do with this much needed factory. Ardmore has not only opened the eyes of her own citizens but of all those who are preparing to come to the fertile lands of the great southwest. She gives employment to a great many people already and there is nothing which advertises a city more than its employment in all classes of labor. We have the best fruit and truck growing soils under the shining sun right at our door. We have the home demand and railroad facilities to supply a vast demand for canned goods. There is nothing lacking to make the Ardmore canning factory a hummer if we will only put our efforts in the right direction.

There will be a mass meeting in the city hall Saturday, Jan. 20, 1906, at 2 p. m., and it is urgent that all stockholders and every one who wants to see Ardmore prosper, keep moving on to attend. This is a stockholders' meeting but we invite every one to attend.
Remember the date, at city hall, Jan. 20.

ROOSEVELT AS SUCCESSOR.

To President Harker as Head of the Chicago University.

Chicago, Jan. 12.—Talk of electing President Roosevelt as successor of the late President Harper at the head of the Chicago University has become strong in university circles. It is declared to have been one of the hopes of Dr. Harper during the last months of his life that the way could be cleared to have President Roosevelt to take the head of the university at the conclusion of his presidential term. To bring this about it will be necessary to alter the constitution of the university which declares that only a Baptist may be the president. President Roosevelt worships in the Dutch Reform church.
